It is not likely that a long time will elapse before public attention is called to a very important subject connected with the relations between the home government and the administration of this colony. In consequence of proceedings which took place in the Legislative Council during the summer and last year, the Colonial Secretary has communicated with this government in a manner which cannot but lead to the discussion of topics far wider in their bearings, than those relating merely to the conduct of one individual. The view which has been taken at home, of the proceedings above referred to, is also calculated to bring about a searching inquiry into the official responsibilities of men taking part in the public service of the colony, and will render it necessary for all persons concerned, to come to a clearer understanding of the extent to which official duties limit the independent action of public servants. It is not necessary in dealing with this subject to lean about the bush and affect to make a mystery of a matter which has been freely discussed already. It will be seen that we allude to the notice which has been taken by the Colonial office, of the course pursued by the Colonial Treasurer of Hongkong with reference to the ordinance legalising the military contribution. The Colonial Treasurer it will be remembered seconded an amendment proposed by Mr. SUTHERLAND. The military contribution was warmly opposed by a large section of the community, and it was very widely felt at the moment when the colony had been burdened by the establishment of a mint, which for a time at any rate was a source of outlay, it was a very inopportune moment for the home government to chance for demanding a heavy contribution to the imperial exchequer. Mr. SUTHERLAND moved "that the sum of £92,000 military contribution be omitted from the estimates until such time as the revenue derived from the mint attains that sum." It is not necessary at present to go into the merits of this amendment. It is not probable that anyone would argue for a moment that it was unreasonable, or that any man could be accused of hostility to the government for supporting it. The seconder of the amendment, however, was Mr. FORTH, the Colonial Treasurer, holding his seat at the council table as an official member. It is a consideration of this circumstance that has raised the ire of Mr. CARDWELL. The adoption of the ordinance relating to the military contribution was ordered by him, the Secretary of State, and for a member of the colonial government, a man whose seat on the council was due to the position he held under the colonial office to oppose it, seems him a species of audacity almost beyond belief. It evidently appeared to him like Snake, rebelling against the authority of Mr. Squeers. Was not Hongkong a crown colony, a little outlying dependancy of the Colonial office having simply one duty on earth, to do the bidding of the Secretary of State? The Legislative Council was no doubt looked on as a species of toy given to the colony to play with, but from which no political vitality was expected any more than from the debating society of a country school. When it ventured to dispute the mandates of a Downing Street dispatch, it was passing the bounds of the utmost imaginable licence, and required to be brought back to a knowledge of its true impotence. Of course the erratic proceeding of a non-official member like Mr. SUTHERLAND might be tolerated, but for the Colonial Treasurer to kick over the traces was simply unbearable. Mr. CARDWELL at once wrote a dispatch, in which he called upon the Acting Governor to explain to Mr. FORTH the impropriety of his conduct, and in which furthermore he stated that if Mr. MERCER had suspended him at the time, he would have confirmed the suspension.

It will be seen at once that this dispatch opens up a great variety of questions. What is the true position at the Council board of the official members? Are they there simply as echoes of the ministerial will, prepared to override by silent votes every motion of a character distasteful to the colonial office or the Governor, or are they there to constitute as individuals to the discussion of public affairs? Is the Legislative Council to be simply a permanent bit de justice, or it is to retain sufficient vitality to command some sort of respect? Is it desirable that at moments of difficulty when the Governor might be called upon by events to act with extraordinary energy, he should have the support of a public body sufficiently independent for its support to be valuable, or it is in contemplation by the Colonial office to render the council a mere shadow, incapable [illegible] whatever and meaning [illegible] falling on itself the small [illegible] ridiculously in troublesome [illegible] If the government should endorse the view of Mr. FORTH's conduct taken by the Secretary of State on the ground that there must be unity amongst the members of the local administration, it must be admitted, on the one hand, that there is, in this view of the case an appearance of logical justice. Except on comparatively unimportant questions, the members of the cabinet at home, hang together as a matter of course. The assumption is that they are men who would not take office together unless they were agreed on public questions in the main, and prepared to sink minor differences of opinion for the sake of concerted action. It may be argued that the members of a colonial administration are bound to act together harmoniously in the same way. This argument, however, overlooks the constitution of the Legislative Council. The imperial cabinet is a small knot acting together in the midst of an immense assembly. In the Legislative Council the members of the colonial administration actually form the majority of the chamber. What is the consequence therefore, if it be established as an iron rule that all official members are to vote one way? That the Legislative Council is a mere farce. It is not even a consultative body. It has not even an opinion to offer the governor for his consideration. No one suggests that the council should have the power of overruling the action of the Governor in the event of an open disagreement between the members and the president. The order in council under which the Hongkong Legislative Council exists, gives the Governor the power of passing ordinances if he please, in spite of the unanimous opposition of the Legislative Council. Surely this secures all necessary authority to the executive. If it does not, then the establishment of a council is a radical mistake. It is, however, in the interest of the governor that the independence of all members of the council should be encouraged so far as possible. The great value of the council to him is that its cooperation should in eventful crises give weight to his acts in the eyes of the home government. It does not always happen that the Colonial office is on amiable terms with its governors, but it would not be easy for a Secretary of State to condemn acts which had been upheld by a council, all the members of which were known to act as individuals in accordance with the dictates of their own conscience. What conclusions are inevitable, if a contrary view be taken. If in a legislative body composed of nine members, besides the president, six are always to have one opinion, voting and thinking in accordance with the word of command, is that a state of things which would render it possible for the unanimity three, consistently with the maintenance of their own self-respect to continue in occupation of their seats? It may be inconsistent with the convenience of government that any open disagreement between the members of the Hongkong administration should be tolerated, but if this be so only one thing can be done to save the council from falling into contempt, the number of non-official members must be largely increased. In the interest of the government as well as in the interest of the community should such a change be demanded in the case we suppose. Unless it be possible that the council might pass a vote in opposition to the wishes of the executive, its approval at executive acts can never have the slightest importance.

Legislative Council.

[In consequence of the interest which will now be felt in the former proceedings of the Council, relating to the Military contribution, we reprint from the Daily Press the report of the Council meeting which took place on the 23rd of September, 1865.]

PRESENT.

His Excellency the Acting Governor.
The Acting Colonial Secretary.
The Hon. Thos. Sutherland.
The Colonial Auditor.
The Acting Attorney General,
The Colonial Treasurer.
The Hon. J. C. Whyte.
The Acting Chief Justice.

His Excellency the ACTING GOVERNOR said that the principal object for which the council had been convened was for the second reading of "a draft of An Ordinance to apply a sum not exceeding seven hundred and forty-five thousand dollars to the Public service of the year 1866."

The estimates which had been printed would be found to give the fullest information relative to the financial position of the Colony, and it would be found by them that there was an anticipated excess of revenue over expenditure.

HON. MR. SUTHERLAND, moved as an amendment. "That the sum of ninety-two thousand Dollars Military contribution be omitted from the Estimates until such times as the revenue derived from the Mint attains that sum." The Hon. Member said that in bringing this amendment before the Council it is unnecessary for me to enter into any very elaborate arguments on the subject, as the question has been already sufficiently discussed in Council. Indeed it has been the subject of very strongly expressed opinions throughout the Colony. It appears to me however that the necessity of urging the financial considerations connected with this question on the notice of the Council, and obtaining the opinion of members thereon, is even greater now than it was last year, for by the statement of revenue and expenditure before us, it appears that the Colony is fast verging on—if it has not already arrived at—a position from which it has fortunately been free for some years past, of not being able to meet its current expenses. By the statement before the Council it appears that the revenue for 1866 is estimated at $781,845 00 whilst the expenditure is set down as $913,879.00 the difference of these two sums, indicating an anticipated deficit of $128,794.00. It is true that we appear to have funds to meet this deficit for one year from the funds which are still remaining from the old treasury balance, but from the manner in which that capital was acquired it ought to be expended in a very different manner than in temporarily providing for deficiencies. I believe that that surplus capital was intended by Sir Hercules Robinson to be employed in developing the operations of the Mint, or in opening up Kowloon so as to make that place representative to the Colony. But however that may be the deficit must soon be felt and provided for, the Colony will be placed in the position of either having to incur a debt, or having to resort to some new mode of taxation, and I, for my part, feel thoroughly convinced that the revenues of the Colony have already been raised to the highest point consistent with prudence, and any additional taxation would be most impolitic, and likely to frustrate its own ends, by reacting unfavourably on the interests of the Colony. Of the reasons that prompt the Imperial Government to call upon this place to contribute to the expenses which it now brings up the settled delusive hypothesis that used to flow from Guiglini's wonderful throat, and the tender knightly grace of Mario, so dwelling in the Barbiere, or forgetting even the wild excitement of a revolution under the influence of Valentina's Io t'amo, to come back and bid her be sweet and dear. Hope so fervently that no additional cash could sing, or in any other way express.

This is indeed, you will say a very solemn gravy wool. What am I driving at? What have these memories of Covent Garden and the Italian more to do with Hongkong? Perhaps much, perhaps little, at any rate if you will let me manage it in my own way I may retain a sort of dominion at last. People ought not always to be coerced in their ideas, any more than they should always wear black coats. I have a great deal to say about black coats for just once but most justmost; the subject is so vast, that it would lead me far away from what I was saying, in defence of disconnected ideas, which are in the course of fashionable shipping. Every man of intelligence I think is more essentially to some help himself, and the shabby Lascars on flitting across his brain will haut any effort on his part. Sometimes then are of a nature I would like to express, and we y often indeed quite overwhelmingly exhausted to tell, but not necessarily because they are disagreeable. Johnson's Dictionary is a disconnected book, but not purely unqualified for performing in an efficient manner the duties of that station. The interests of the Colony call for an immediate and thorough clearing in our police system, but of course that [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

NEW AND MOST VALUABLE MEDICINES of GRIMAULT & Co., Chemists to H. I. H. Prince Napoleon, Paris. Perfectly Harmless and Incapable of disorder.

No. 1 The Cod Liver Oil. Grimault's Syrup of Iodized Horse-radish. Price 3 Rs. a bottle, cash. Prepared by Grimault and Co., Chemists of Paris, according to the certificates of the Physicians of the Paris hospitals, detailed in the printed directions, and with the approbation of several Academies. This Syrup is employed with the greatest success, in place of Cod Liver Oil, to which it is infinitely superior. It cures diseases of the chest, scrofula, lymphatic disorders, green sickness, muscular atony and loss of appetite. It regenerates the constitution by purifying the blood, and is in a word, the most powerful depurative known. It never taints the stomach and bowels, like Iodide of Potassium and the Iodide of Iron, and is administered with the greatest efficacy to young children, subject to humourse or obstruction of the glands. Dr. Cazenave of Saint Louis Hospital, Paris, recommends it particularly in diseases of the skin, to be taken with his Pills mentioned above. The Syrup of Iodized Horse-radish is a capital adjunct to Dr. Leras' Phosphate of Iron.

No more Consumption. Grimault's Syrup of Hypophosphite of Lime. Price 2 Rs. a bottle, cash. This new Medicine is a sovereign remedy in phthisis and other diseases of the lungs, promptly removing all the more serious symptoms. The cough is relieved, the night-sweats cease, and the patient rapidly recovers his health.

No more dyspepsy, vomiting during pregnancy, and sea-sickness. Grimault & Co's Digestive Elixir of pepsine, At 3 Rupees a bottle, cash. Pepsine is the gastric juice itself, or rather the active principle purified, which digests food in the stomach. When from various causes, the supply of the digested fluid is too small, the most terrible consequences are, bad digestion, inflammation of the mucous coats of the stomach and bowels, and in females, general derangement. The elixir of pepsine, sanctioned by the Paris Academy of medicine, speedily cures all such diseases, and prevents vomiting during pregnancy and while on sea voyaging.

No more poverty of the blood and pale complexion. Drs. Leras' Phosphate of Iron 2 Rs. a bottle, cash. This new ferruginous medicine contains the elements of the blood and bones, and iron in a liquid state. It is different from all hitherto offered to the public, is liquid, colourless and tasteless. It speedily cures chlorosis, pains in the stomach, difficult digestion, dysmenorrhœa, anæmia, and is therefore only sup rseded by Combate of Iron, Iron reduced by Hydrogen, Lactate of Iron, the Pills of Protosaccharine of Iron. The majority of the Academies of Medicine of Paris recommend the Phosphate of Iron, to Ladies of delicate constitution and fine complexion, and all other persons fatigued from over anxiety, nervous emotions, overwork, general debility, and weakness of blood. It is the only preparation which never causes constipation, and can be borne by the most delicate stomachs.

No more Copaiba and Cubebs. Grimault's Capsules and Liquid Extract of Marine Vegetable, are a perfect substitute for Copaiba and Cubebs. They are used in the Hospitals of Paris, by the celebrated Dr. Ricord, and are found greatly superior to all hitherto known mineral remedies and Copaiba and Cubebs. The Injection is used in recent, and parasites in the more chronic cases.

GENERAL DEPOT.

In Hongkong, at J. J. dos Silva & Souza.
